In my opinion, there's no better time to eat out than Happy Hour. The drinks are cheap, reservations aren't required, and best of all, the discounts on food can be substantial. Here are my current picks for the best Happy Hour food I've had in Orange County. Prices are up to date as of this writing, but check the restaurants for hours and other restrictions.

Buffalo Chicken Dip at Holsteins

The pastel-colored atmosphere, the excellent burgers, and the even more excellent booze-spiked milkshakes makes Holsteins fun-fun-fun. But the Happy Hour menu also makes it a deal. Just four dishes are offered at the Happy Hour discount, but they're all $7. There's an exemplary poutine topped with braised beef, real cheese curds, and a stout-based gravy served on the side. And then there's the stunning baked dip concocted of cheese, chicken, and hot sauce eaten with fryer-fresh tortilla chips. It tastes as though the soul of a Buffalo chicken wing possessed a hot spinach dip.
